BOXING MATCH NOW PLANNED BY VETERANS

Out Of Doors Arena Is To Be Built In Brisbane

Brisbane Veterans are looking forward to a good start in their plans for a monster boxing entertainment to be held in Brisbane about October 17. All proceeds from this affair are to be turned over to the fund for a recreation center for the children. Co-operation has been promised by county officials and fight managers in San Francisco. Many others are expected to help, prominent among whom will be the various Posts of the American Legion throughout the vicinity.

It is planned to hold ten or twelve bouts of from four to six rounds each. Participants will be some of the best boxers in the state. All boxing promoters in San Francisco are expected to help in the affair.

Local carpenters have volunteered to furnish the labor for building the large out of doors arena.

The Veterans, since the success of their picnic and barbecue, believe that they can put this over in a big way and that it will add a nice sum of money to the children's recreation center fund.

VALLEJO TAKES JEFF INDIANS FOR CLOSE WIN

Local Football Team Is Making Rapid Progress To Victories

Before long, if the Jefferson Indians improve as steadily as up to date, they will be dangling their opponents' scalps on a crowded string. Jefferson's second practice on the Vallejo gridiron wasn't a victory, but it showed the strength of their offense.

Coach Mathews started the second team, but a more balanced Vallejo eleven shoved them around for a quarter and broke through for a touchdown. The coach then called the regulars into the fray. With repeated line plunges by Wright and Compagno the Indians moved the ball to the 16 yard line, from which position Stanley Simpson skirted the end for the touchdown.

Vallejo's break came with a recovered fumble on the Jefferson 10 yard line, from where the Apaches plowed through to ring up their second touchdown. The rest of the game was played with Jefferson trying to retaliate, but Vallejo successfully protecting her extra points. With an injury to Simpson and Olson, a vital blow was struck to Jefferson's scoring chances.

Outstanding in the game were Dick Wilson, Ayres, and Roy Wilson. Stanley Simpson will soon be playing again, but it is believed that Olson will be out for the balance of the season.

COMPLETION OF WORK AT UNION HIGH HITS SNAG

Strikes Delay Construction Of Gymnasium And Swimming Pool On Time

Completion of the Jefferson Union High School gymnasium and swimming pool will be delayed, due to the strike of the plasterers of the Bay region.

This information was given to the Board of High School Trustees by the contractor, Frank J. Reilly, at their regular monthly meeting, Tuesday evening of this week. Mr. Reilly stated that the strike, which has been in operation since August 1, will make it impossible for him to complete the project by November 1, the date fixed for completion by the

DRESSED TO GREET FIESTA VISITORS

Two of the 16 beautiful San Mateo County Fiesta hostesses who will attend the Fiesta Fandangos Saturday night are shown above. They are Rowena Conner, left, and Helen Caumen, both of San Carlos. The hostesses will welcome visitors at the Fiesta, September 23 to 26.

FIESTA HOSTESS TO BE FEATURED ON BROADCAST

Colma Girl Is Latest Entrant
For Recognition In List Of Greeters

Ruth Lindorff, attractive Daly City girl, who has won the distinction of being named one of the hostesses for the annual San Mateo County Floral Fiesta, at Bay Meadows from next Thursday through Sunday, will appear on a radio program this coming Sunday.

With the Fiesta but six days off, an extensive schedule of publicity has been arranged by radio, press and other appropriate stunts.

Miss Lindorff, because of her associations with the Fiesta two years ago, when she was chosen queen, was selected to appear on the "Romance of the Highways" program over Station KGO at 11 a. m. the coming Sunday.

With a radio voice said to be unexcelled by many great stars, Miss Lindorff will be interviewed at length on the Fiesta and will endeavor to give the entire Pacific Coast a word picture of the great show.

Turn About Gives Boy And Dog Bites

A little playful game between a boy and a dog resulted in injury only to the boy at Los Angeles, last Saturday.

TEN THOUSAND FUND GOAL FOR PREVENTORIUM

Entire County Being Organized In Drive To Aid
Tuberculosis Victims

Kind hearted men and women, representative of all of San Mateo County, have launched a mighty effort to raise $10,000 for the San Mateo Preventorium, a local institution that in the past has shown its worthiness by saving hundreds of peninsula children from the ravages of tuberculosis.

Starting off with "a kick off" rally banquet at the Benjamin Franklin hotel in San Mateo earlier this week, Preventorium leaders headed by Captain Edward Macauley chairman of the drive, were making a clean sweep of the peninsula as they sought to boost the Preventorium membership rolls and contributions to the $10,000 goal.

They stressed the need of funds for the Preventorium with the ap-

Catholic Services Held Every Sunday

Catholic services continue to be held every Sunday morning in the Brisbane Fire Hall at 9:15. Either the pastor or assistant from Visitacion Valley celebrates the Mass and gives a short explanation of the gospel read on that particular Sunday. After mass, follows Sunday School under the direction of the Sisters of Charity from Mt. St. Joseph's School. The sisters also conduct a meeting for the children in the Social Hall on Tuesdays after school.

Last Sunday the services were held especially in thanksgiving for the signing of the Constitution of the United States a hundred and fifty years ago. After Mass one of the members made the recently organized congregation a present of a large American flag. Arrangements are also being made to give a whist party for the benefit of the building fund in the Visitacion Parish Auditorium, on the evening of October 27.

Say That Swamp Is Health Menace

It seems as though the time has come that something should be done about the disease infected swamp, whose obnoxious odors are carried all over Brisbane.

Passing motorists on the highway have been seen placing handkerchiefs to their noses and closing their car windows while passing this menace to our fair city.

It is high time that the county officials take some action and follow up the preliminary work they have done to eliminate this nuisance.

Sharp Park P. T. A. To Give Dance

NOTED JURIST GIVES TALK ON NARCOTIC EVIL

Judge Twain Michielsen Is Heard In Interesting Topic
At High School

An interesting address on narcotics was delivered by Judge Twain Michielsen last Tuesday evening in the Little Theater of the Jefferson Union High School. Judge Michielsen has spoken on this subject before 125 organizations in San Francisco, the student body of Burlingame High School and different V. F. W. groups. At all times the subject seemed to be well received by the public.

He discussed the different kinds of drugs, how they are grown, used, and their effects. He pointed out the fact that for the vast quantities of narcotics raised by the Japanese, San Francisco is the chief port of entry to this country. Also in San Francisco 74 1/2 per cent of all criminal cases are found to be drug addicts, while in Los Angeles, a larger community, only 10 1/2 per cent are users of narcotics.

He described the Marijuana plant as growing like a weed, having nine leaves which spread fan shape. The leaves are a dull green color. It is impossible to cure a drug addict, as their brain suffers a permanent impairment. The drug burns the brain serious consequences follow, something bad is bound to happen. Their standards of morality are lowered and they steal or kill in order to get money to purchase drugs with which to satisfy their dope hunger. Drugs bring slow death or insanity and individuals using them lose pride, home and integrity.

Judge Michielsen stated that the best way to halt the march of dope fiends is to prevent giving suspended sentences to drug addicts who are found guilty of violating the drug act. He also stated that each of us should study upon the subject and acquaint ourselves further with this menace, which is a constant threat to the youth of the nation.

Mrs. Nellie Jensen, who is president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Old Glory Post No. 2044 of the V. F. W., under whose auspices the lecture was given, expressed her thanks to Judge Michielsen for his coming here to deliver such an interesting and instructive message.

Louis Proves Worse Than Most Severe Critics Suspected

WHILE Joe Louis and Tommy Farr were taking care of their international relations at Yankee Stadium recently, two widely divergent viewpoints were developed. One held by a majority of the woefully small crowd was that the visiting notable deserved the decision. The other, entertained by the state's duly appointed referee and judges, was that they could do their duty only by declaring that the champion had successfully defended his honors.

Since then four other viewpoints have been added to the general confusion caused by the light fantastic performance within the ring. I list them forthwith:

V. P. (1)—The great radio audience's impression that it was a whale of a prize-fight.

V. P. (2)—The casual notion that Farr must be a considerably better fighter than even the ten unknown gees who previously had licked him ever suspected.

V. P. (3)—The well-founded belief that Louis looked even worse than a baldheaded space filler who thought he could do the job in five rounds.

V. P. (4)—The sum-it-all-up idea that the thing would be made to order for reviving Britain's faltering boxing industry if re-enacted in London next winter.

V. P. (1) can be disposed of summarily. It was by no means a great fight or even a good one. Even the Baer-Braddock waltz, previously held up as a horrible example when mention was being made of heavy-weight championship flopperflops, was a bargain in comparison to it. No more than 10 mildly authoritative blows were struck within the course of the 15 rounds.

V. P. (2) is not to be given the air so easily. Farr, as was known in advance, is mainly a young man composed of elbows, cunning and heart. He used all three of them effectively. That his performance against the champion was by no means equal to that of the Schmeling who knocked out Louis or the Pastor who provided a boxing lesson cannot be held against him. Neither can the point score which shows that Referee Donovan gave him only one round out of the 15 and called only one other even.

Then what? Well, for instance, let us go into V. P. (3) which deals with the Louis situation.

Joe won eight rounds out of the fifteen on the Bradley score card. They were rounds two, three, four, five, seven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen. He was given the advantage of the doubt in the second and twelfth rounds which were slow, dull and unsullied by blows of any significance. He was backing up, looking puzzled and fighting only in flurries in the fifteenth which went to Farr as did six others.

Something—perhaps too much success, perhaps vain efforts to make a boxer out of him—has changed the giant once known as the Brown Bomber.

Rhythm Was Missing Against Tonyandy

When he is hit on the head he has a habit of dropping his hands and tugging at his trunks. He still does not know what to do in clinches.

Most important of all, the rhythm and speed are missing. He stood flatfooted against Farr, pawing timidly. When he got ready to punch, he raised on his toes. Farr kept watching the feet all the while. When Louis moved they Farr moved too and so was in position to avoid the punches. Even the Louis who fought Braddock whipped over blows with lightning speed from almost any stance.

Joe no longer punches to the body, blows which formerly weakened a victim for the decisive slug to the head. When he fought Paulino, whose main defense was a pair of elbows held high and close, he banged away to the body. Then, when Paulino dropped the defense for a moment, he dabbed with lefts to the lugg as quickly as any cat putting the clincher on a mouse.

Tommy Farr

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

BILL ROGELL of the Tigers still is the American league's best double-play shortstop. The worst outfield arm in the circuit belongs to Chicago's Rip Radcliff. Jake Wade of Detroit is the easiest pitcher in the league to run on. Johnny Murphy is the toughest Yankee pitcher to run on. New tips as to football tops—Pittsburgh in the East, Washington on the Coast, Texas Christian in the Southwest, Minnesota in the Midwest and Harvard in the Ivy league. Cornell may surprise.

Plans for the Argentines to play a polo series in Mexico depend upon a decision by the Mexican government. The Gauchos would play on borrowed mounts since their own high-class stock will be sold. Juan Castex Pradere, spare on the Argentines, entertains his friends by eating glass and lighted cigarettes.

At the age of sixty-three Devereux Milburn, the former polo internationalist, can play 36 holes of close-to-par golf daily. Often fits in six fast periods of polo after his golf, too. Mario Bigangario, Italian sports writer, also is an interpreter in Brooklyn's Snyder Avenue court. The original Kid Norfolk is holding down a job with the WPA. Reds and Giants were so sore at one another in 1919 that when Cincinnati players came to the Polo grounds they brought their own supply of bottled drinking water. Boxing Commissioner Bill Brown of New York seems to think that Max Baer is a fit opponent for Jim Braddock, but refused to let him fight the local boy, Bob Pastor. Bob must be a pretty good fighter when all things are considered.

Connie Mack seldom offers cash for players, but he would like to buy Rudy York of the Tigers. Patty Berg is not the only golfer in her family. They say up Minnesota way that her fifteen-year-old brother, Herman, Jr., is the real Berg prospect.

Recalls Prediction on Harry Danning

Quotation from story written at San Antonio, Texas, on March 12, 1931, by H. Bradley:

"There's a kid here nobody seems to notice but if you're wise you'll stick along with him in his opinion that he's going to be a Giants' star some day. His name is Harry Danning."

Harry Danning

gate star has hands like a meat chopper, a terrific drive and does upon taking opposing lines apart. That women's title test at Memphis in October should be one of the grandest amateur golf events in years if the U. S. G. A. does not muddle things as usual. Keep an eye on Betty Dietrich, new Westchester links queen, and Marion Turpie, whose putting has made courses do new tricks. Nomination for baseball's best money player—Little Jimmy Rippe of the Giants.

Football Coach Andy Kerr says: "Colgate is not officially interested in Bowl games." Colgate has received bids to various bowls for the past several years and has turned them down. But a Rose Bowl bid might be considered in spite of the university's policy because (alas, for purity) it's a big dough game. Also thinks that football over the country is standardized with no section having a monopoly on the best teams.

Says the East has more colleges and therefore cannot center its material at a few spots as can the Pacific Coast. Coach Mal Stevens is plenty fed up with those gees who say N. Y. U. students of physical ed are up at Lake Sebago now for early football practice. Really it's part of the prescribed course.

Bob Zuppke's favorite dish is a raw hamburger sandwich over which he spreads two raw eggs, which he breaks himself to make sure they are fresh. He then smothers the cannibal sandwich with onions. Hans Steinke, veteran of the wrestling mat, is drawing $300 a week as a pirate in a movie titled "The Buccaneer" in Hollywood.

Stub Allison, California football coach, advocates bowling as an excellent conditioner for football. He takes his squad to the alleys a couple of times a week during pre-season practice. The Green Bay Packers predict the Brooklyn Dodgers will win the eastern division championship in the National Professional league. This year marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of athletic relations between the Army and Notre Dame and between the Navy and Notre Dame. The first games were in baseball in 1913. Manager Bill McCorry of the Albany club is fifty, but he has pitched two games this year. Roger Peckinpaugh is a partner in a Cleveland desk firm.

Harold Conn, the Tigers' new batting practice pitcher, was rescued from the Orlando club of the Florida State league, where he was manager. Howard Jones has abandoned the two team idea for his University of Southern California football squad, one for each half of the game, and will return to the old system of the eleven best men composing the varsity.

Anakatabats May Get You When You Are Up in the Air

Up and Down Currents Are Avoided by Pilots

By DR. FRANK THONE

Washington.—Anakatabats—are you acquainted with them? There's likely to be one in the air in your vicinity right now. So without much question you know anakatabats in a general sort of way at least, though probably not by that name.

Anakatabat is a newish word, not used much yet even in the profession for which it was invented, which is meteorology, the weather man's "ology." But because it rather neatly expresses a scientific idea and a material reality, anakatabat is likely to become more familiar in time—perhaps even to become street English.

Despite its Eskimoid appearance and sound, anakatabat is good Greek—indeed, very simple Greek. Put into equivalent simple English, it is "up-down-go."

What Goes Up, Comes Down.

The idea of an anakatabat is built on the ancient truism that what goes up must come down, or at any rate that if something goes up its equivalent must come down. We see this simply exemplified in the ordinary passenger elevator, where the weight of the cage is offset by the heavy counterweights that slide down the sides of the shaft when the cage goes up, and up when the cage comes down.

The same kind of thing happens in the air. When a strong current of air rises very fast, as it does when thunderhead clouds are piling up on the horizon, somewhere else an equivalent vertical wind is blowing the same amount of air downward, thus preserving atmospheric equilibrium. Such an up-down-going of air constitutes an anakatabat.

An anakatabat can be very dangerous to aircraft. Planes avoid them. They have wrecked three fine airships for the United States navy: Shenandoah, Akron, Macon. When you're up among the clouds, it's decidedly not a good thing to meet an anakatabat.

Cosmic Ray Balloon Tracked to Earth by an Airplane

Washington.—A star fell on a tobacco row at a farm near the little town of Aquasco, Md., some 30 miles from Washington. Moreover an airplane chased the star to earth.

Or at least that is what Franklyn Irvin Gibbons thought as he stopped hoeing his tobacco recently and watched a plane following a shining object coming down from the sky into his nearby cornfield.

"The 'star' was a radio balloon sent aloft by Dr. L. F. Curtiss of the national bureau of standards, which ascended some 17 miles and transmitted, back to earth, cosmic ray data. The zooming airplane was from the United States naval air station, flown by W. B. Fuller, radio-man first class, and O. T. Cooper, chief radioman. They noted the shining bag of the radio balloon falling at the rate of about 150 miles an hour at an altitude of 8,000 feet and dove to follow it to its landing. The coincidence is the first ever known to occur in the new field of radio meteorography by which scientists are now probing the upper air to learn its weather and cosmic ray secrets.

Tiny radio transmitting sets carried aloft in small, unmanned balloons are reaching far beyond the limits of human flight in either airplanes or balloons.

Too Much Drainage Plays Hob With German Land

Berlin.—Drainage of areas better left as lake or swamp is proving a difficulty in Germany no less than in the United States.

For every area thus recovered and put to agricultural use, there is a neighboring area that is damaged through the lowering of its water table and the consequent disturbance of its biotic balance, declares Alwin Seifert in the German conservation journal, Naturschutz.

Digging drainage ditches is a principal occupation of the German Arbeitsdienst, which is the equivalent of the American C. C. C. Herr Seifert is convinced that they are turning a good thing into a bad, by carrying it too far.

CALIFORNIA

News of the Week

'Shrinking Man' Gets Film Role
Santa Clara.—Joaquin Vienna, this city's "shrinking man," left for Hollywood to take up a motion picture role. Vienna, because of a disease which causes the vertebrae of his spine to shrink, has lost about six inches of height in the past ten years.

To Build Wider Highways
Sacramento.—All State highways will be constructed in the future with a minimum lane width of eleven instead of ten feet, according to the Public Works department. The change is designed to increase traffic safety. Investigations have disclosed that more accidents happen from sideswiping than from colliding head-on.

Four Children Die in Farm Fire
Lompoc.—Trapped by a fire which destroyed their farm home near here, four children burned to death last week. Smoke and intense heat drove back their heroic mother, Mrs. Mary Tosti, when she returned to attempt a rescue after leading two of her other small children to safety. She was severely burned.

Matson Flagship to Be Renamed
San Francisco.—The steamship Malolo, flagship off the Matson Navigation Co. fleet will soon make her last voyage under that name. The name of the vessel will be changed to the Matsonia, the name used formerly by the company's flagship which was sold in 1933. Native Hawaiians long have insisted that the name Malolo, which means "flying fish," is a symbol of bad luck.

Early Winter Forecast
Sequoia National Park.—Old-timers predicted an early fall, based on the appearance of numerous hairy tarantulas seen for some time crossing roads in the park and foothills. Ordinarily the insects are not seen until much later in the season. Unlike tarantulas found in the tropics, the two varieties found here, large black ones and a gray species, are harmless.

Honor California Governor of 1903
Oakland.—Gov. Merriam and four former Governors of California met with more than 500 guests here in a birthday tribute to Dr. George C. Pardee. Dr. Pardee, elected governor in 1903, was the guest of honor. His eightieth birthday was last July 25, but the tribute of fellow-citizens could not be arranged at the time. Other former Governors present were Friend W. Richardson, C. C. Young and William D. Stephens.

Hobart Mills New Ghost Town
Truckee.—Hobart Mills, less than a year ago one of the most active lumber towns in California, where more than 500 men were employed, soon will join the ranks of ghost towns. The suspension of operations at the huge saw mill and box factory last Fall started the exodus of scores of families. Between twenty and thirty men and less than half a dozen families remain in the town. These are expected to depart within the next few weeks, or as soon as the small supply of lumber and materials on hand is disposed of.

Old Mission Re-Dedicated
Lompoc.—The Franciscan Mission La Purisima de Maria Santissima, now being restored, was dedicated as a State historic monument last week with a re-enactment of the original ceremony of 1787. Destroyed by an earthquake in 1812, the mission was rebuilt, only to fall into decay 20 years later when the California missions were secularized by a decree of the Mexican government. In 1934 the mission property was acquired by the State and the following year reconstruction began when a CCC camp was established under direction of the National Park Service.

Oppose One-House Legislature
Sacramento.—California farmers will oppose the initiative measure for a one-house Legislature, Colonel Walter E. Garrison, of Lodi, president of the Associated Farmers of California, Inc., announced. "A one-house Legislature would place absolute control of all State legislation in three counties—Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda," Garrison said. On a population basis, Los Angeles would have 30 legislators, San Francisco nine and Alameda seven. "This total of 46 would constitute a clear majority of the proposed 80-member Legislature," the farmer-leader stated.

Officers' Club in Sierras
Sacramento.—Commander E. C. Edwards of the Mare Island Navy Yard announced that California has been selected as a permanent recreational area for officers, both active and retired, of the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard, national guard and other branches of the service. The site selected is in a tract of 1,600 acres near Soda Springs. Plans for a clubhouse and living cabins have been prepared and actual building will be started next spring.

When a Balloon Bursts, Your Face Does This

The facial expressions of this twelve-year-old girl, made with a continuity camera, show the time it takes the brain to react to the bursting of a rubber balloon. These facial expressions, from the start through the finish, are much the same as those of any person subjected to a similar experience.

UNC' BILLY WISHES HE HAD STAYED AT HOME

WHATEVER possessed Unc' Billy Possum to go wandering off way, way into the deepest part of the Green Forest, he did not know himself. He just went, that was all. Perhaps it was something in the air that made him. It seemed as if everybody was doing a great deal of wandering about these beautiful early spring days. It's a way the little meadow and forest people have in the glad springtime. So you will meet them in the most unexpected places, very busy doing nothing at all but looking around.

"How Did Yo' Pass the Winter, Br'er Beaver?" Asked Unc' Billy.

So Unc' Billy Possum wandered along poking over sticks and piles of leaves, peering with his shrewd, sharp little eyes into every hollow log and stump, and watching for signs of nest builders, for you know Unc' Billy has a weakness for fresh eggs. He just can't pass a fresh egg no matter who it belongs to. He always excuses himself on the ground that whoever laid it can lay another, and so no harm is done, which, of course, is no excuse at all. But Unc' Billy seems to think it is, and whenever he goes out to walk in the spring he has his eyes open for new homes of his feathered neighbors.

This particular morning he had come as far as the pond of Paddy the Beaver before he stopped to rest. There he sat down on Paddy's dam to pass the time of day with Paddy, who was swimming about in his pond just as if he hadn't anything else in particular to do.

"How did yo' pass the winter, Br'er Beaver?" asked Unc' Billy. "Very comfortably, thank you, Unc' Billy," replied Paddy politely.

"I had plenty to eat, a comfortable bed, and plenty of time to sleep. What more could I ask?"

Unc' Billy grinned. "Yo' could have asked for warmer weather," said he. "Ah done thought Ah was going to freeze to death. Ah done wish a good many times that Ah was way down south in Ol' Virginny. Ah don't like such a long, cold winter."

"Did you call that a long winter and a hard winter?" exclaimed Paddy. "Pooh! You ought to spend a winter up where I came from. I don't believe that Mistress Spring has reached there yet."

"Then Ah don't want to be any nearer to it than I am this very minute!" declared Unc' Billy. "By the way, Br'er Beaver, have yo' seen any strangers up this way? Br'er Jay and Br'er Crow done go crazy in their hinds, Ah guess, for all they can talk about is a big black stranger who stands on two legs and walks on four legs and is as big as Farmer Brown's Boy. They say they saw him somewhere up around here. Have yo'—"

Unc' Billy didn't finish what he had started to ask. He didn't finish because the snapping of a stick behind him made him turn his head. There stood the stranger in black, as big as Farmer Brown's Boy, standing on two legs and with the awfulest big claws Unc' Billy ever had seen! It was all that Sammy Jay had said. Unc' Billy gave a frightened little gasp and shut his eyes tight

"SOME EXCEPTIONS"

"THE Right Word" has presented some thoughts in connection with the compounding of words. The dictionary gives "some exceptions." Let us see what they are.

The first of two nouns often stands as an adjective under the following conditions:

When the first noun has the sense of "made of"; as silk dress; feather bed; pumpkin pie; stone wall; paper box; stone fence; iron railing.

When the first noun has the sense of "having the shape or the character or quality of"; as, brother officer; fellow citizen; man servant; boy bishop.

When the first noun has the sense of "pertaining to, suitable for, or representing"; as, city officer; district attorney; government employee; railroad supplies; insurance officer; church furniture. When the first noun has the sense "characterized by"; as, diamond ring; cylinder press; cupola furnace.

When the first noun has the sense "situated in, having a character naturally implied from situation or connection"; as, ocean steamer; school etiquette; mountain streams; country gentlemen; society manners.

When the first noun has the sense of "acting in support of, advocating"; as, Jackson voters; silver advocate; prohibition speakers.

When the first noun has the sense "residing, existing, or originating in, or coming from (a place)"; as New York schools; Florida oranges; Bath brick. These should give the reader some idea of the exceptions to compounding.

CRACKS IN CONCRETE

CONCRETE is likely to crack from settlement and from various other causes. During warm weather, and aside from appearances, this may lead to no harm. In winter, however, water may freeze in the cracks, and then with the expansion that occurs, the cracks will become larger, and the damage is increased. This is especially the case with stucco. What seem to be tiny cracks in stucco may be the beginning of a serious injury.

Cracks in concrete and stucco can be closed with a mixture of 1 part cement and 3 parts clean building sand, with only enough water to make a workable mixture. A patch on the surface will do little or no good. To be effective, the patch must be forced into the crack; and the deeper it goes, the better. Narrow cracks should be widened with a cold chisel to make space for the patch. The edges of the cut should

The Wealth I Possess

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I'VE figured my blessings, I've counted my cares, I've balanced the book of my daily affairs, A column for credits, a column for debt, A place for unkindness I cannot forget, And yet there were pleasures along with the pain, And seldom a loss but had some little gain. I find I have more than I ever have known, Astonished to note all the wealth that I own.

I've figured my blessings but little, I fear; My cares I have counted each day and each year. Forgotten the pleasure, the pain I have kept Forever in mind, ev'ry moment I wept. The loss I remember, the sorrow recall, The happiness hardly remember at all, But now I have taken a balance at last, The joys and griefs of the present and past.

I've figured my blessings, I've set them apart In a book I am keeping, the book of my heart. I need not set down all the trouble and care, I find I already had written it there. But I had forgotten the love that is mine— It took a whole column, the hate but a line. The joy always greater, the grief always less, I'm really astonished the wealth I possess.

be rough, so that the patch, in hardening, will lock itself into place. Whenever possible, the cut should be made wider at the bottom than on the surface, to give the effect of a dovetail joint. In applying a patch, the old concrete should be well soaked with water, so that moisture will not be absorbed from the patch. To gain full density, the patch should be kept damp for several days.

Small cracks in stucco can be closed with a mixture of cement and water to the consistency of thick cream. This is put on with a stiff brush, the length of the crack, so that it is worked in. Before patching, the old concrete should be wet with water.

In the case of a crack between a concrete walk and a foundation wall, patching can be with roofing cement. This has the advantage of being elastic, and of keeping the crack closed should the walk shift with movements of the earth. The cement is most easily applied by melting it and pouring it in. It may be necessary to make space for it by cutting out the crack with a cold chisel. This method can also be used for closing a crack between a cellar floor and a side wall.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Dainty Shoulder Straps.—When making your undies try using narrow velvet ribbon for the shoulder-straps. The velvet side next to the skin acts as a grip, while the satin on top looks dainty. You will find that ribbon-velvet straps will outlast any garment.

Raspberry Shrub.—To three quarts of red raspberries and one quart of sugar add one cup of vinegar. Cook slowly for half an hour and strain through cheese-cloth. Pour into sterilized bottles and seal. Serve over ice cubes diluted with water to taste.

Save the Curtains.—A finger cut from an old glove and slipped over the end of a curtain rod enables it to be pushed through the curtain hems of the finest net without catching and tearing the fabric.

In Preparing a Chicken Dinner.—A live chicken usually weighs a third more than a dressed chicken. Allow half a pound of dressed chicken per person.

For Basting Roasts.—Leftover fruit juices, especially those from spiced fruits, make excellent basting liquid for roasts, chops and ham dishes.

A Mended Cloth.—If a small hole is burnt or worn in an otherwise good white tablecloth, it can be "mended" most effectively by stitching a motif in fine crochet over it and cutting away the spoiled fabric underneath. Add one or two more motifs so that the necessary one does not look odd. This is certainly more decorative than an obvious darn!

Picnic Lemonade.—One cup sugar, one cup water, one cup strong tea infusion, six lemons, one cup crushed pineapple, three quarts water. Cook the sugar and water to a thin syrup; add the tea, lemon juice, pineapple, and water. Serve iced. Sixteen to eighteen servings. Excellent to quench thirst. Juices from canned peaches, apricots, pears or cherries can be utilized for some of the water.

GO FARTHER BEFORE YOU NEED A QUART

How long should a quart of oil last?

No one can answer that question specifically because driving habits differ. But there is one thing certain...you will go farther with Quaker State because it gives you "an extra quart of lubrication in every gallon." You can easily prove the economy of Quaker State by making the "First Quart" Test. And remember...the oil that stands up longest is giving your motor the safest lubrication. ROCKAWAY BEACH PEDRO VALLEY

High point of the week was the barbecue dinner given to the engineers, contractors and several important notables in the California wine industries, by "Jim" Troglia, of the Coastside Distributing Co. Jim's idea in giving the party was one of appreciation of the road men who have become his valued friends during their long stay in Rockaway and Pedro while the new highway was being built. Now that they have nearly finished their work in this locality, Jim's barbecue dinner was a hearty hail and farewell to them!

The dinner was served in the new Coastside wine supply house. Covers were laid for thirty guests. A delicious meal accompanied by cocktails, fine wines, with champagne as a top-off, made the occasion a memorable one to the road men and their attractive wives. Jim Troglia was busy attending to the barbecuing of the luscious steaks, so he missed many of the speeches.

Nicola Giulii, first vice president and sales manager of the Italian Vineyards & Pacific Coast Fruit Industries, Ltd., came up by plane from Los Angeles with Harry Weiss, salesman, to attend the dinner. Mr. Giulii was in a joyous mood, and he started the gaiety by leading the guests in the singing of a song that was surely never taught at their mother's knee! He explained that in business he is a serious, practical man, but when he takes time off to attend a jolly affair like Jim Troglia's barbecue, he forgets business and devotes himself to pleasure. And, by the way, Mr. Giulii's business interests are too big to be easily forgotten. The immense vineyard at Guasti, planted in 1900, has a producing capacity of five million gallons of wine; a storage of 18,000 tons of grapes, all of them for the wines that make California famous. In New York they have a storage of two million gallons; 800,000 in Chicago; 500,000 in New Orleans; two million in San Francisco; besides five million at Guasti.

Mr. Giulii talked interestingly of wines, telling different guests at the table with him—"You should drink only red wines," or "You should never touch any but dry wines." He related how his mother had bathed him in wine when he was an infant, "to make him strong."

Following the last course, champagne was lavishly served, with a great popping of corks. Then someone spied a player piano in the corner of the hall, and "trod" the tunes for dancing. A number of speeches were made, complimenting Jim Troglia, the host, on the delightful entertainment he had provided. Then all joined in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." The final event was cafe royale at Gus and Julia's.

The engineers and contractors made many friends while working on the coast road unit between Rockaway and Pedro, and now that they are transferred to Livermore, they will be missed by the residents of both towns. Among road officials present at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Purser, Henry Simard, Poss, Ed Ward, Hermann Hansen, John Carlin, Jack Granfield, Herbert Dierdorff, Zamberson, Mr. and Mrs. Connor and their guest, Fred Lipsky, and others.

George Lewis reports that cabazone and blue cod fishing is unusually fine off the rocks at Shelter Cove now. This is the time of year they start in good earnest. A Moroni took five big sunfish, weighing about seven pounds, and other large strings were brought in every day by two boys staying at the Cove, Bud Montgomery and Melvin Riley. Pat Moloney has a friend visiting at his beach cottage, who declares he has never, in all his life, seen such a run of fine perch, nor such big catches of cabazone. Mr. Norton gave fish to all his neighbors last Monday. And all the successful fishermen are glad to share their abundance with the "land lubbers," who live at the Cove. Everybody's feasting on fresh caught fish these days at Shelter Cove. And no wonder!

Mrs. Jennie Bicknell had a birthday party last Wednesday. Mrs. Wallace, also "birthdayed" the same day, at her own home. Present at Mrs. Bicknell's party were Mrs. Hertha Rich, with Marian Jack and Rosemary Rich, Larry Mercilli, Edie McDonald, Ted Cupman, Mrs. Henderson, Jimmy Bicknell, Florence, Annabelle and Jim Troglia. B's new lunchroom is one of the bright and popular spots in Rockaway. The school children regard it as their very own.

Pauline Connor, guest of Grace Danmann, is training as nurse at the Morton Hospital. Harry Danmann is still at Rockaway, visiting Bob Scott's.

Great activity is reported around the Haugaard mansion at the Cove. It seems "Frankie" McGrath has been getting his garden into shape, and a keen rivalry has started with the next door neighbors. Peter H. has (for the moment) overcome his natural aversion to work, and is digging in like a bulldog, wrenching weeds out of the soil. Already he has a pile of discards on the beach

Football Season At Junior College

San Mateo Junior College opens its 1937 football season, Friday evening, when it faces San Francisco State College on Roberts Field, in San Francisco. A fairly green Matetan team, prepped by only twelve days of practice, will face a veteran four-year college that lost only two men from its 1936 squad.

One thing cheers the San Mateo student. His football turnout is the best in years from the standpoint of numbers, so the team is assured of reserve strength which was lacking last year.

that he can hardly see over without climbing a step-ladder. They say that Peter is trying to reduce some of that "muscle" that bulges out on his tummy. Meanwhile, Mrs. Peter has been making the most of the three "planting days" scheduled for September.

Juanita Lombard enjoyed a day in the city on Monday. The Bailey house is being painted, and the brand new baby is staying elsewhere until the place is aired. An efficient friend from San Francisco, whose line is groceries, is helping Mrs. Bailey at the store.

Pat ("Mac") McCarty has gone down to Palm Springs for the winter, taking with him his good dog, "Bridget." Pat's interest in his own home and garden ebbs away when he can't grow flowers and vegetables. So he picks up stakes and departs to some place where the sun shines and the seeds sprout. Good luck to "Mac"! He'll be missed here until he returns in the spring to shake the moths out of his kitchen linoleum and dust off his garden tools.

Another automobile accident last Tuesday on the Rockaway-Pedro road shows again the urgent need for oiling and rolling the loose gravel, especially at the sharp curves, to prevent skidding. The delay in finishing the surface is regrettable, although, probably unavoidable.

Several items must go over until next week. One is a good joke on Harry Rees, that was told by one of his neighbors. Don't forget to look for it. Till then—

Mr. James Ferguson, principal, welcomed the members and compared conditions in California schools at the present time to those in European countries.

New faculty members were introduced and delegates appointed to the District Meeting in September.

Refreshments were served by the reciprocity chairman, Mrs. S. Sanders, and her committee.

Wedding Date Is Still Dark Secret

Dr. Charles Gans and Mrs. Harriet Parkman Gill, were recently married. This was disclosed Friday of last week.

Doctor Gans is the San Mateo County health officer and his bride is the daughter of Senator Harry Parkman. She was employed in the health office in Colma until her marriage last week. As yet the exact wedding date is still a secret.

FIESTA HOSTESS TO BE FEATURED ON BROADCAST

Colma Girl Is Latest Entrant For Recognition In List Of Greeters

The program is sponsored by the Greyhound Bus Company.

For fifteen minutes Miss Lindorff will speak on the radio broadcast, answering questions about San Mateo County and the Fiesta, concluding her appearance with a general invitation for all listeners to attend.

Two other radio programs have been arranged to publicize the Fiesta. One at 9 p. m., Sunday, the P. G. & E. program, "Tales of California," will be dedicated to San Mateo County and the Fiesta; tomorrow night, Saturday, Alvin Masterson of San Mateo will dedicate his song, "Boots and Saddles," to the Fiesta during his appearance on the Buddha Amateur Hour over KFRC at 8 o'clock.

Latest entrant in the Fiesta Hostess group was Miss Ruth Green of Colma, bringing the number of girls from this area in the publicity group to two. Miss Green was added to the list after the entry list had closed because of her outstanding attractiveness and excellence as a photography subject.

Highlight of pre-Fiesta events is the Fandango, a huge dance in Spanish atmosphere, which will be given at San Mateo Junior College gymnasium tomorrow night. At this event all sixteen Fiesta hostesses will take part in the greetings to visitors. Many residents from this area have announced plans to attend.

Tickets for the Fiesta have already been placed on sale, the price of three for one dollar giving early purchasers three regular 50-cent tickets for the price of only two. Elmer Roberts and Mrs. F. M. Perkins, ticket sales chairmen, have urged early purchases.

USE TIRE COVERS

A good tire cover is a worthwhile investment. Spare tires deteriorate rapidly if exposed to the heat of the sun for any length of time.

Reception Is Held By Mothers Club

The Mothers Club of the San Mateo Junior College will hold a reception and tea for the faculty and mothers of the students. Freshmen mothers are especially urged to attend. The reception will be held in the Julia Beylard Hall at 3 p. m. on September 23.

Dean Morris will introduce the members of the faculty, and following the introduction will give a short talk on the "Junior College of Today." Mrs. F. L. Kneuper will render vocal selections.

All mothers who are interested in the Junior College work are cordially invited to attend.

President George Morell announced this week the program of the summer conference of the California Newspaper Publishers Association at Stanford University, September 17 to 19. Non member publishers are also invited, along with their wives and accredited staff members.

Friday and Sunday will be devoted to recreation, including golf, swimming, and tennis. Business sessions will be confined to Saturday. Publishers and their wives will be housed in Lagunita Court, in the women's dormitory. Special rates have been made by the university.

The Saturday morning session will be general, but separate meetings of daily and weekly publishers will be held in the afternoon.

Morton McDonald, classified manager of the Oakland Tribune, will discuss at the morning session "The Importance of Classified Advertising to Weekly and Daily News-

President Morell, who attended the Chicago meeting of publishers associations to discuss the question of the Guild closed shop, will report on the results of that meeting, his subject being "The Chicago Guild Meeting and the Newspaper Labor Program." Justus Craemer, co-publisher of the Orange News, will explain "Newspaper Week, October 4 to 10."

In the afternoon daily round table, to be presided over by Vice President W. S. Kellogg, publisher of the Glendale News-Press, two topics will be handled. L. A. Copeland, of Allied Newspapers of Southern California, will talk on "Selling the Newspaper as an Advertising Medium." H. C. Burheimer, of the Alhambra Post-Advocate, will talk on "Increasing Expenses and What Are We Going to Do About Them."

In the round table for weeklies, to be presided over by Publisher Roy A. Brown, of the San Rafael Independent, Maitland Henry, of the Livermore Herald, will discuss "The Need for Personalized Editorial Pages," and Neal Van Sooy, of the Azusa Herald and lecturer in journalism at Stanford University, will discuss "What Weeklies Can Do About National Advertising."

At the close of the afternoon session, the visitors will tour the Stanford campus. They will view an exhibit of war propaganda at the Hoover War Library and an exhibit of early California newspapers at the Main Library. They will also visit the Stanford Museum and will conclude the excursion with an organ recital in Memorial Church.

At the luncheon meeting Stanford football players and coaches will speak. At the dinner meeting Dr. George W. Dowrie, professor of finance in the Stanford Graduate School of Business, will discuss the current outlook in business.

federal Administration of Public Works. Accordingly, he requested the Board of Trustees to secure for him an extension of time equal to the number of days delay due to the strike. The request was at once forwarded to the federal government with the recommendation that it be granted.

This is the second protracted delay in the work due to strikes, the first being caused by the tieup of Pacific Coast shipping, which prevented the delivery of steel and other materials. If there is no further interruption the contractor estimates that he will be able to complete the gymnasium and swimming pool by January 1. The entire concrete work will be finished by the end of this month.

Principal James Ferguson reported to the board two cases of vandalism which occurred on the high school grounds during the holidays of last week. Twenty windows were broken in the auto shop, and fifteen sprinkler heads were removed from the front lawns. The police department was notified immediately, and officers were detailed to make an investigation. The officers have secured the names of a group of boys who were seen on the grounds at the time and who are suspected of the offense.

Mr. Ferguson stated that he had discussed the matter before the student body, and that a reward had been offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties. He explained to the students that the high school property belongs to the taxpayers of the whole district, and the Board of Education are the legal guardians and custodians of it, and are required to protect it. At the beginning of summer vacation he had found it necessary to tell a group of boys that if the high school property was destroyed the Board of Education would not allow the grounds to be used as a public playground. The City Council had generously provided for supervision by a teacher and was giving the fullest co-operation, in conjunction with the school trustees, in providing supervised play for the children of the district. Mr. Ferguson asked the active co-operation of every high school student in protecting the property against all acts of vandalism.

The high school enrollment to date was reported as 712 in the day classes—the highest for the first month in the school's history.

The board expressed gratification at the improvements already made on the grounds by the WPA workers. The sewer connecting the gym-

Citizens Becoming Language Minded

San Franciscans and citizens of surrounding areas are becoming foreign language minded, judging from the large number of adults attending the classes of the Works Progress Administration, education program of the State Department of Education. Enrollment for the fall term far exceeds all previous registrations.

Instructions are being given in French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish in 33 classes, located in convenient neighborhoods throughout the city. These classes, which are free to the adult public, meet in the daytime as well as at night. Advanced and elementary training in the languages are given. Details of class hours and location can be obtained from the office of the program, 216 Market street, Douglas 7119.

nasium and swimming pool with the city system has already been completed, and work has been begun on the laying of a brick and cement gutter along the roads on the school campus. The ground around the tennis courts is being leveled preparatory to landscaping.

Board Member Remi Sanders was given a hearty welcome on his return to the body after an absence due to serious illness. The other trustees present were Andrew Virclerk, and Ed Weisenburger. Mrs. clerk, and Ed Weisenburger. Mr. Jones was unavoidably absent and was excused from attendance.

Those Who Are Good Must of Needs Match

I doubt whether anything in the world can beautify a soul more spontaneously, more naturally, than the knowledge that somewhere in its neighborhood there exists a pure and noble being whom it can unreservedly love. When the soul has veritably drawn near to such a being, beauty is no longer a lovely, lifeless thing, that one exhibits to a stranger, for it takes unto itself an imperious existence, and its activity becomes so natural as to be henceforth irresistible. Wherefore you will do well to think it over, for none are alone.—Maeterlinck.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

"Well, it was like this. I had said good-night to Mark and gone into my room. I had pulled off my coat, had yanked off one shoe when I began to drift. He reddened. 'Perhaps it's effeminate but I like a lot of 4711 in my tub, and I asked myself, 'Who's been using my bath crystals?' I heard sounds in the bathroom. I sort of took my breath for a minute and my brain whirled like a pin-wheel. Then I grabbed up my flash from the table beside the bed and tiptoed to the door. I banged it open. Water was gurgling out of the tub, dripping from the shower, my shaving things were scattered everywhere, and a shoe was going out of the window." Stewart pulled out a handkerchief and mopped his red, moist face.

"A shoe!" Brooke and Sam exclaimed in unison.

"I presume there was a foot in it. For an instant amazement paralyzed me. I made a strategic error. Instead of beating it after that shoe, I poked around. The razor was gone. That fact gave me a nervous chill. 'Why would a man take that? Who could it have been? Kowa?' I asked myself. 'But he has his own bath; why should he use mine?' Then I came to and realized I was wasting time."

"I'll say you were and you're fairly spilling it now. Keep going! You did go after him, didn't you?"

"I did, Sam, but first I shouted for Mark. I hadn't much hope that he would hear me but I didn't dare wait to make sure. I squeezed my boyish figure through that window and wriggled to the balcony. I listened. I could hear only the pound of the surf and the crack of frost in the trees. Cautiously I peered over. Nothing moving. A sound! After this I'll never doubt that hair can rise. Mine felt like that green stuff you see growing up straight on one of those terra cotta heads. I listened. Sounded like a curtain flapping. Then I noticed that the window next to mine was open. Had the man gone in instead of over?"

"I knew that it was a Lookout House window, Brooke, but I didn't know whose room. I couldn't be fussy about that. All the horrors I'd ever heard rushed through my mind as I thought of the missing razor and of what might be happening to you and Lucette and Sam."

He ran his fingers under his collar. "It chokes me even to think of it. Where was I? Oh, yes, I squeezed through and dropped softly to the floor. I stopped to lock the window and draw the shade—my late visitor might have a pal, I reasoned—before I tiptoed into the adjoining room. It was a bedroom unlighted. Behind a hanging I reconnoitered. A mirror over a desk in the next room reflected a boudoir with flower panels; then I knew that the room was Brooke's. All the lights were on. No one there. I crept in. A desk drawer was on the floor, its contents scattered in all directions. A chair was overturned. I lived years crossing that room. What could I see? What would I find on the other side of that door? The hall was dark. The man—"

"Call him the Bath-Crystal Bandit and be done with it, but get him out of this house, Brooke's eyes will pop out of her head in a minute."

"Don't interrupt, Sam. Go on, Jed. Did you see anyone?"

"Couldn't see anything. Didn't dare use my flash for fear I might be spotted. I figured that the man had heard me enter my room, had beat it to the balcony, had seen the open window of this house, had crawled in planning to make his get-away from the lower floor. I gumshoed down holding my breath at every creak of a stair board, expecting every minute that I'd be sniped at."

"In the hall I stopped to listen. Sounds upstairs. Faint sounds. I hunted for the light switch. Found it. It seemed years that I waited in the dark with my finger itching to press that button. The house was so still I could hear my brain working. Stairs creaked! Back stairs! A door swung! He was coming! A chair crashed! I had him! I shouted:

"Don't move! I've got you covered!" Snapped on the hall light. When I saw you two blinking and staring like owls, you could have knocked me over with a toothpick. That's the end of my installment of the serial. Now, perhaps you'll explain why you were prowling round this house?"

With her arms in the big green mandarin sleeves crossed on the white porcelain table, her eyes deep shining pools of excitement, Brooke leaned forward and told him. Stewart's lips and cheeks puffed and deflated at second intervals as he listened.

Suddenly, Sam raised his hand in warning. "Listen, folks! Footsteps! Stealthy! Outside! Who's coming?" Jed Stewart sprang up. He caught his chair before it could crash, and swung it experimentally as Sam pressed the light switch and plunged the room into ghostly gloom.

The back door opened softly. Brooke held her throat tight in one hand to stifle an exclamation.

The light flashed on. She closed her eyes. Opened them. Was that Henri, Henri standing in the middle of the floor, with the blinking green parrot making queer noises under his arm, or was this more nightmare? She was awake. Sam was real, as he stood with his finger on the switch. Jed Stewart was real, as he puffed his lips in time to the swing of the chair he clutched. Henri's ghastly face, distended eyes, and the savage invectives which gritted through his chattering teeth, were real.

"Cut that line!" Sam took a step toward the butler. "You should appreciate this little surprise party instead of acting as if you'd stepped into a nest of scorpions. It wasn't but a couple of hours ago I saw you in this very kitchen dressed—or undressed—for bed. Why did you go out?"

Henri made a desperate attempt to steady his quivering mouth. He looked like an innocent prisoner haled before an accusing judge; his expression was incredibly grieved as he huddled the parrot under his arm and twisted his soft hat in one hand. He appealed to Brooke.

"I don't know why your brother should speak to me as if I was a criminal, Miss. Haven't I the right to go out at night, even if I had started for bed?" He attempted to inject the virus of defiance into his uneven voice.

"Of course you have, Henri, but the papers are so full of burglaries and hold-ups that when we heard you stealing in we didn't know but what it was our turn. Where did you find Mr. Micawber?"

"That's why I went out, Miss. Couldn't go to sleep, had him on my mind. Queer where I found him. Everything's queer tonight." Henri shuddered. "Nothing strange has been happening in this house, has it?"

"Nothing at all, Henri, nothing at all," Sam assured quickly. "We sat up talking and got hungry again."

"I'm glad of that, Mr. Sam, that nothing strange happened, I mean,

"Now, Don't Be Frightened, Maggie."

because I—I found things terrible wrong outside."

"Wrong!" Not until she felt Sam's foot on hers was Brooke conscious of her explosive exclamation. She noticed that the butler's long cruel fingers shook as he passed them over his slack mouth.

"I don't wonder you're upset, Miss; you'll be more so when you hear that the old madame's limousine is gone."

"Gone where?" Sam demanded. Henri shrugged thin sloping shoulders. "That's what I asked myself when I opened the garage door and the big car wasn't there."

"What did you do after you discovered that Mrs. Dane's car was missing?" asked Brooke.

"I ran to the Other House—you'll excuse me, Miss, for going to Mr. Mark first; I've always thought of him as being the heir, you see."

"Don't stop even to explain, Henri. Can't you see that we are frightfully excited? Perhaps something more than the car has been stolen. Did you find Mr. Trent?"

"No, Miss, and there's something queer there too. That Jap, Kowa, came rushing to the door when I kept my finger on the bell, and he shouts:

"Where's my boss? I been over house, one, two, t'ree time. Boss gone! He been kidnaped, I tink! Loud noise Mr. Jed's room. I run there quick. Green parrot in bathtub, swearing fine."

"I ran upstairs for the parrot, thinking the Jap had a bad scare on and I'd see Mr. Mark somewhere. But I didn't. The Jap and I looked everywhere but he was not there."

Tense silence in the white and green kitchen. Chilled and exhausted by his foray into the outside world, the parrot huddled within the curve of Henri's arm making sounds in his throat like a tribal dialect. The faint scent of bacon lingered in the stillness, a stillness haunted by tragic conjectures and possibilities which turned Brooke's blood to ice. Sam laughed from sheer nervous tension. Jed Stewart lashed at him furiously:

"You would do that! It's all theater to you Reyburns, isn't it, and side-splitting theater at that. Where's Mark? That's the only thing I want to know. Where's Mark?"

"Present."

Mark Trent answered from the doorway. Brooke's heart stopped, raced on. What had made that deep welt across his forehead? His face was colorless.

Henri's thin quavery voice broke the spell.

"Have you been hunting for the parrot too, Mr. Mark?"

Mark Trent's hand was unsteady as he held a lighter to his cigarette. His eyes reflected the flame as he looked at the butler.

"Not for the parrot, Henri. I'm hunting now for the man who killed Mrs. Hunt."

CHAPTER X

Mark Trent flinched as he approached the white cottage. It seemed days since he had driven away from this very house in the limousine filled with his aunt's silver; days since the message had come to Cassidy's garage from the police that Mrs. Hunt was dead and he had left there in a flivver with Mike at the wheel. They had stopped at Lookout House to make sure that the Reyburns were safe before they had turned up the road to get here. But it hadn't been days, not much more than an hour had passed. No use waiting, he must go in.

As he entered a small living-room, Inspector Harrison was kneeling by the fireplace. His piercing eyes glittered as he looked up and nodded to Mark.

"They got her all right."

Mark Trent stepped forward, blindly for an instant. He sunk his teeth deep in his lips to steady them before he looked down.

Lola, the woman who had been his wife, lay on the floor. She was dressed for the street—had she been about to drive away the limousine full of silver? The question flashed through his mind only to be instantly submerged in a flood of pity. She looked so young, so shabby, so hapless. Her shabbiness hurt him most, she had been so exquisite. He was glad that he had made her that allowance. Her hat had fallen off. A current of air stirred a lock of her dark hair. Her hands were still now. One gripped an open bag, the fingers of the other were bruised. He dropped to his knee beside the inspector.

"Can't something be done? Can't we move her to a couch?"

"No! No, not until the coroner comes."

"What happened?"

"They got her rings. She had rings, hadn't she?"

"She had when I saw her—a few days ago. Valuable rings. Other jewels too."

"Then I guess we got the motive. Better come away, boy, you can't do anything," Inspector Harrison suggested in his persuasive voice.

"Life hasn't seemed as smooth as a trotting park to me to date, Bill, but tonight it seems a terrifying, horrible thing."

"I know, boy, I know. Bring her in, Tim." The inspector spoke to the policeman with ears like clinging bats, who appeared at the door.

"It's the Cassidy girl," he explained to Mark. "Kinder tough to bring her into this room, but there don't seem to be any other place. We've waited till her father got here before questioning her. Mike's a grand fella and me friend since we were lads together. Here you are, Maggie!"

The hint of joviality in his soft voice missed its mark, for the sixteen-year-old girl, who entered the room as if dragged by unseen hands, regarded him with terrified Irish blue eyes.

The inspector placed a chair with its back to the still figure on the floor.

"Sit here, Maggie."

As she sat down, Mike Cassidy laid his heavy ham-bone hand on her shoulder. The inspector cleared his throat.

"Now, don't be frightened, Maggie. Ain't I just the same Bill Harrison who's been chumming round with your dad ever since you was a little girl, and ain't I got kids of my own? All you got to do is to tell me what happened in this house tonight."

"Course, I ain't afraid of you, Inspector," the girl replied, more at ease. "I'll tell what I know. I sleep in the attic, it's got a dormer back and front. I was dead beat when I went to bed, what with the housework an' havin' to run out to fill tanks. The boss was sick till afternoon an'—"

"Drunk, wasn't he? Tell it straight, Maggie."

"All right, Inspector, he was. I don't know what time it was when I was woke up by a car stopping at the garage; sounded like a classy car. We don't have much late trade—an' the boss told me today that the crowned heads here, that's what he said, 'crowned heads,' had put him out of business—so I got up and looked out to see what 'twas all about. I can see into the garage from my back window."

"Check up on that, Tim."

"Yes, Inspector." The policeman with the ears vanished into the hall.

They're Not All Professors—Those Absent-Minded Ones

Absent-mindedness isn't confined to the professors, says the Commentator.

The late Dwight W. Morrow once telephoned his secretary from Philadelphia, to inquire, "What am I in Philadelphia for?"

Secretary Henry A. Wallace, when he was in Czechoslovakia, packed his passport in a trunk that was shipped to London, while he set off in the opposite direction.

And J. David Stern, publisher of the New York Post and Philadelphia Record, was hurrying along the street when he met a friend. "Come on and have lunch with me," the friend said.

"If we go nearby," Stern said. "I'm late as it is."

They entered the nearest restaurant and sat down. Stern complained that he didn't know what was the matter with him, he didn't seem to be hungry.

"Beg pardon, sir," the waiter said, "but it's no wonder, sir. You just finished your lunch about ten minutes ago."

A Safety Tip FOR YOUR WEEK-END TRIP

TAPPING RUBBER TREES ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA

From the Firestone plantations in Liberia comes an ever-increasing supply of the world's finest rubber. Money saved here and in manufacturing and distribution enable Firestone to sell a safer, first-quality tire at lower prices.

Here's Why FIRESTONE STANDARD TIRES GIVE YOU MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

DON'T take chances on your Week End trip. Protect yourself and family by equipping your car with a set of new first-quality Firestone Standard Tires. Firestone builds extra quality and extra safety into these tires and sells them at lower prices because Firestone controls rubber and cotton supplies at their sources, manufactures with greater efficiency and distributes at lower cost.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord because every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping Process. This counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because there are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE—because of the extra-tough, long-wearing tread.

You need all of these features to make your car tire-safe on your Week End trip. Firestone gives them to you at lower cost. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires—today's top tire value.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON SMOOTH WORN TIRES!

DO YOU KNOW

THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children?

THAT a million more were injured?

THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to smooth, worn, unsafe tires?

As right section cut from a new Firestone tire. Note the thick, non-skid protection against skidding, blowouts and punctures. Come in and see by actual demonstration.

As left is a section cut from a smooth, worn tire, with non-skid protection worn off. Tires in this condition are liable to punctures, blowouts and skidding.

Nebraska Fanny went on a visit to the Chinatown something or other last Wednesday, anyway from the best I could gather it was something about telephones, you may be cheered with the news that eminent professors report that native Nebraskan will be able to speak English within the next 100 years. . . Neva "Lambie Pie" Johnson and her "Auntie pie" Ellen Miller went a walking in Oakland the other evening and almost got lost in the mud flats. . . Jack Perkins and his fran and her brother went up to Oregon a couple of months and they ain't been heard from yet, gee Mr. President Roosevelt ain't Oregon in the Union anymore, or is it a jungle frontier (maybe its C. I. O.). . . Harold "El Capitan" Trafford almost lost his hen house, (or did the hen's move out) last Sunday, when he set fire to it. . . Norman "Leftenant" Brown failed to open a stop valve and there wasn't no water to spew on the hungry hens, I mean flames. . . and little children, after the big bad man did open the great big valve, big brave Alfred (or is it Albert) Wallend the fireman nearly drowned in the deluge. . . "Man Mountain" Al Adams lifted little boy Walland up to his shoulders and the ten feet of water didn't bother him. Chief Schmidt turned his helmet over and sat down in it and rowed merrily out the door. . . Walt Blair had no trouble, his gondolas prevented his sinking. . . tis said that Elizabeth Miller is engaged, ask her and find out for certain. . . Bill Wimmer was out polishing his car, the other morning at 7 o'clock, my word what an iron man he is. . . Good to see Ray Grigsby around after his siege of illness, his doctors wife seems to like Brisbane a great deal, because of our sunshine and quiet. . . Finis.

COUNTY PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETING HERE

Excellent Dinner Is Enjoyed And Considerable Amount Of Business Transacted

Approximately, every half-year the members of the San Mateo County Press Association journey northward to the popular municipality of Daly City to attend their regular monthly dinner and business meeting, which convenes the first Monday of every month, except in September, Labor Day being observed. Then it is held on the second Monday.

Monday evening of this week, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pitschke of the Daly City Record were hosts and the dining room at the Colonial Restaurant, 6192 Mission street, was the scene of this gathering. The long table was arrayed in colorful linen and bouquets of sweet peas. Music and dancing interspersed the elaborate six course dinner, and a feeling of good fellowship prevailed throughout the evening.

Much routine business was transacted.

The honor guests of the evening were Miss Edith Allan, acting manager of the San Francisco office of the California Newspaper Publishers Association, and E. R. Lovett, publisher of the Palo Alto Times.

Those in attendance from this county were Messrs. and Mesdames Sam Winkelbleck, Redwood City Tribune; P. W. Brubaker and Harry Buttler, San Mateo Times and George McQueen, Burlingame Advance. The Half Moon Bay Review was represented by George Dunn and the San Carlos Enquirer by H. B. Cook, Jr. We were unfortunate by having Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McCue of Redwood City Standard and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Harris of the Menlo Park Recorder, absent from the session.

Frosh-Soph Team Loses to Vallejo 'B's'

Opening their schedule with a tough game with the Vallejo reserves, the Jefferson Frosh-Soph team made the trip to Vallejo last Friday night for their first game of the season with the Vallejo "B's."

During the first period of the game the Jefferson Frosh-Soph team seemed to be holding the Vallejo "B's" steady line plunging, but the line was slowly weakened by this intensive battering so that it finally broke down, letting Vallejo through for a touchdown.

In the second period of the game the Vallejo "B's" again succeeded in breaking up the Jefferson defense, to score a second time. The Jefferson Frosh-Soph then retaliated with line plunges by Lemos and Christen and passes by Guisti, carrying the ball to the Vallejo 1 yard line. With a few minutes remaining in the game the Jefferson Frosh-Soph tried bucking the line in an attempt to score, but a stone wall was met every time; thus the game ended with a final score of 13 to 0.

Willows Preparing Annual Air Show

Preparations are practically completed for the seventh annual Northern California Air Show at Willows, September 25 and 26, with indications pointing to a heavy motoring attendance.

Many noted pilots will take part and exhibits of latest types of airplanes will be displayed. The program will include air races, parachute jumping, formation flying, crop dusting and rice sowing, and an aviators' ball.

CLAMS QUARANTINED

County Health Director Charles C. Gans was notified this week by the state department of health that clams on San Mateo County's coast-side have been quarantined in a ban that extends from Los Angeles to the Oregon line. Clams taken on county shores of the San Francisco bay are not included in the quarantine, Dr. Gans said.
